

Grohmann Knife Handles

Grohmann Outdoor knives are available in many steel/handle combinations. Handles are as important to the quality of our knives as are the blades. And since all handles involve natural materials, no two handles are alike. Safety, comfort, balance and lasting beauty are handcrafted into each one. After all, your knife must "feel right". When choosing your Grohmann knife, you should consider all the different materials for handles. There are 7 different handle materials to choose from and here is some information about all of them:

Classic Rosewood:

Grohmann offers classic Rosewood in many beautiful variations. Ranging from deep, rosy brown to blonde strips, each handle is quite unique as no two handles are ever the same. Plantation grown mainly in East India, this special wood is selected for its durability, color & rich grain. Rosewood is always an excellent choice for a quality handle.

Stag horn:

Made from shed stag horn, a lasting natural choice that is pleasing to the eyes as it is to the hand. The natural grooves & indentations make a secure grip as well as providing a unique handle with every knife. Nice enough for a presentation piece but durable enough to use. Very limited quantities left due to the stag ban...some models are sold out of the stag horn, which is why we have introduced the new Jigged Water Buffalo Bone below as a natural, but less expensive substitution.

Jigged Water Buffalo Bone:

Can't find the model you want with stag horn and don't want cheap plastic fake stag handles? We have just what you need. Real Water Buffalo bone has been jigged and colored to look like stag horn. Bone has more consistent properties than stag, less marrow, and more even scales, so turns out a very eye-catching product. Water Buffalo handles are naturally water-resistant and extremely durable. Available on most models.

Water Buffalo Bone:

All natural Water Buffalo Horn handles have a high shine finish with color variations from jet black to black with streaks of pearl gray and white. Water Buffalo handles are naturally water-resistant and extremely durable. Available on most models.

Xtra Water Resistant Resin wood:

These eye-catching handles are made from layers of natural hardwoods impregnated with resin. The beauty of wood, a high gloss finish that does not require any future liquid finishes, not affected by extreme temperatures & resistant to the corrosive affects of salt water are just some of the reasons to choose Xtra Water-Resistant Resin wood. These Handles are available in wine or oak colors.

Linen Micarta:

We have added the black linen micarta to our line as well, available on most outdoor knives. Micarta is commonly called the "steel of the plastic family" for its strength and durability and is similar to G-10. Composed of layers of linen soaked in resin, it is lightweight yet tough, has a slighty linen textured look but fairly smooth to the touch when finished.

Turquoise:

Each one unique! These handles contain turquoise and other semi-precious stones such as jasper, marble, jade, azurite, and more. Beautiful, rich inlays, all hand finished.
